
The question on your mind?

The only question that stroke survivors seem to have is, “Can i do tomorrow what I did yesterday?” We have heard countless times the statements such as:

“Be content with what you have.”

“It could have been worse, you could have died”

“You have to accept reality”

“This is all that you’ll get back”

We are not content...

I had a brainstem stroke at the age of 42 and was given 24 hours to live. Since that time I’ve heard all of the standard phrases and statements. After three years of frustration and languishing in a body that i felt trapped in I became the first American to be treated in Tianjin with TCM for stroke. What I found was not a miracle but the answers that I had been searching for.

I have brought over 500 people to China for treatment in a hospital setting but as costs increased and treatment plateaued I looked elsewhere. I now bring clients into a wonderful 5 star hotel setting where treatment comes to them and they have all the services available in English. Western food, large mall, pool, workout room, riverwalk and more. Three months of therapy and a vacation wrapped up in one!

I look forward to seeing you in Tianjin, China soon!...Ruth

What is TCM?

Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM)

TCM is a form of medicine and treatment modes where optimal conditions are provided to allow the body to heal itself. In western medicine we use pharmaceuticals and surgery to bring about what are generally rapid results, often with numerous side effects.

TCM is a slower form of treatment that uses acupuncture, medical massage, and natural medications and remedies that promote healing that is lasting and on going. We see dramatic result when others have little or nothing to offer.

Why China?

Although Acupuncture is available in the US and some TCM in remote areas, it is very limited and expensive. Here in China you have access to the best in TCM treatment and medications that can not be obtained in the US.

Healing and Restoration

Unlike rehab in the US which can often feel as if you are knocking your head against a brick wall, here you focus on healing the body from within. That healing is a necessary component to rehabilitation and restoration. The acupuncture and other treatments work within the body to create the optimal conditions that are required to allow the body to heal itself.

In the US medical practitioners are often more concerned with getting the patient out of the hospital to keep costs lower, not healing them. We get the cart before the horse.

Our Approach

If you receive a severe cut in the arm you do not rush to rehabilitate the arm... you first clean the area, stitch it up, bandage it and allow then allow healing before you restore proper function.

TCM is the same in its approach. It works by creating that optimal healing environment and opening any blockages within the body data path and network.

Just as I can't call your cell phone unless I know the correct number, your body can not begin to heal properly if the paths for that healing to occur are blocked.

We look forward to seeing you in Tianjin and serving you soon!
